Journey to Japan

RAMBLINGS IN JAPAN

by T. Geo. Wood.

In Japan, so far, we have never been far away from hills and mountains, water, either stream, lake or Ocean, and people, 88,000,000 of them crowded into modernized cities, fishers, farm workers or mountain dwellers.

They wrest their living from the soil, seas and hillsides. With all their struggles for subsistence, they manage to achieve a culture of personal cleanliness, worship, and art, that is enviable from the standpoint of the West. They, with all their disregard for our standards, have set their own, copying our progress, but fitting it into their own lives.

We have recently enjoyed a week end visit, centering on the little town of Gohia.

This place of beauty is set on the hillsides of a valley that forms one of the lower reaches of the Mt. Fuji area.

We travelled about 3 1/2 hours by car, from our Tokyo home, mostly on paved roads, and amid the bewildering, constant stream of left-sided traffic, which we have described.

The route lies southward, through Tokyo, to Yokohama, about 25 miles away, then follows the shoreline of the Ocean, past Oiso and Odawara, turning into the mountains toward Myanoshita.

We stayed at Gohra Hotel. This is one of a series of Special Service Hotels, maintained by the U.S. for their Army forces in the Far East. There is a set of such hotels for Officers and another for enlisted men throughout Japan.

Apparently they are leased from Japanese, and while each one has an Army man in charge, and supervising activity, from there down the hotel is run by native people, up to Army Standards with rooms and meals, at Army rates. Reservations are required, but the rates are reasonable for the accommodations they offer.

This program has developed from the need for Rest and Recreation, especially for the troops serving in Korea or the other, rougher spots of the Orient.

At Gohra Hotel our stay was all too short. In the evening after arrival, Norma and I walked up the village streets, mostly all steep angles up the mountain side. We took delight in a Japanese Hotel garden, lighted with green fluorescent lights shining on a little pool, fed by a brawling brook and surrounded by trees and flowering shrubs. Nearby was a dimly lighted large room which we found was filled with a slumber party of men, all sleeping on floor futons. We hastily retreated to our own good beds.

The next morning, awakened by the calling of the mountain birds, we looked out over the translucent green light as it filtered through the tops of the bamboo trees and down to the fish pond below.

Across the valley, mists were rising in the sunlight, and the varied shades of green were out of the world we know, vibrant with mysterious Oriental colors.

So started our Sunday, one of the nicest ever known.

After a good breakfast, we strolled up the hill to a ceramics shop. Here we, with the children, bought plates. At the studio table, along with men and women, they decorated them with the pottery colors applied by brushes. Robbie did a house in black, greens and orange, Cindy Jo, our 2-year-old, a futuristic set of scrawls in various colors. These were covered by glaze and fired in an electric furnace. We got the finished product in about two hours. They looked good to us.

Next was trout fishing for our supper in the hotel pool. Water was clear as crystal — with a school of the big carp in colors of gold, cream black, say about two feet long on the average. Then there were trout, planted, about ten inches long.

A Japanese girl baited your hook with a bread mixture and the small boys enjoyed the fishing. The rule was that you paid 100 Yen (about 30 cents) for each poor fish caught.

Then the hotel served them as the basis of your fish dinner with all the trimmings, for 50 cents. Robbie and I had four for our supper, but one small boy caught 12 for his family. Not an exciting sport, but hard on the fish. The azaleas were in full flower and the pond was a true beauty spot.

Next we climbed the mountain side to visit Hakone Museum. This is a fairly modern gallery promoted by one Mochichi Okuda. The exhibits were mainly scrolls and paintings by an artist of the 1600's, Iwasa Matabei.

Scrolls are 30 to 50 feet long and shown in cases about two feet wide. They depict, in scenes that move from left to right, the life of that period, in subdued colors. Then there

Fine Program For Graduation Of Seminary Students

The Seminary Class held its graduation program in the Stake House Sunday evening.

The program, under the direction of Seminary Teacher, Bill Nalder, was MC'd by Lynne Galbraith. Preliminary music was played by Carole Holmes and the Opening Prayer was given by Virginia Fraser.

The program started with a play which characterized Old Testament personalities. Actors were Diane Nilsson, Amy Campbell, Jerry Dahl, Ted Jones, and Grant Gemlich.

Janice and Joyce Stevenson and LaRita West sang as a trio, followed by Wyona Graham with a poem, then there was a story from Dorothy Stone and a talk by Fern Dahl. The boys chorus sang a selection. Janice Stevenson conducted the singing of the opening and closing songs. President Rulon Dahl was guest speaker, after which President Golden Snow presented the graduates and post grads with their awards.

Graduates are students who have taken Seminary classes for three years, and post graduates are those who have volunteered for the fourth year.

Lynne Stone offered the closing prayer.

Miss Barbara Fairbanks, who is attending school in Salt Lake City, is visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fairbanks, for a couple of weeks.

Legion Holds Regular Meeting

Among the items of business discussed at a recent meeting of the local Legion was the plan to enter a float in the parade on July 1st, and a request was made to all veterans to submit any ideas they have for such a project. Pres. Bob Zobel or Harold Card will be happy to receive any ideas fellows so get your imagination working — now is the time to plan your float, not June 30th.

It was also decided to discontinue the supper meetings until Fall but to hold a General Meeting on the second Wednesday of each month. A resolution was also passed to restrict the use of the recreation facilities to only those whose membership was paid in advance.

Television also came under discussion with the idea being brought forth that as soon as the station started operation in Lethbridge, it might be a good idea for the local organization to install a set for the use of members.

The Legion is a very worthwhile organization fellows, only to the extent that we ourselves make it so. Unless we can unite and support the president in the projects he has in mind, the Legion isn't much good as a community group, and won't be unless we have another war.

Gas Company Making Progress Despite Weather

The return, or should it be the arrival of really nice weather has the Gas Company people smiling again, after about two weeks of lay-off and slow-down of their work here.

As of Monday night, May 30th, the company had completed 35,800 feet of the local distribution system that will total 62,000 feet completed. Local work in Magrath and Stirling has not as yet begun. Magrath will have a total of 42,340 feet with 34,780 feet of pipe being necessary in Stirling.

The main transmission line will consist of 4.7 miles of 8-inch line, 10.3 miles of 6-inch line, 31.8 miles of 4-inch line and 5.1 miles of 2-inch line. So far a total 23,104 feet of the 8-inch line has been welded and of that, 8,500 feet has been completed.

Out of a possible 645 customers, the Co. has signed 525 and has completed 195 installations and, according to company officials, the citizens of Raymond should be using natural gas by the end of July — maybe before, if the weather stays good.

Mmes. Ruth Gibb, Laura Hirsche, Bertha Stone, and Helen Babb, motored to Lethbridge Thursday where they enjoyed a birthday party at the home of Mrs. Blanche Halback in honor of Mrs. Wynona Nelson and Mrs. Helen Babb.

This is M Men and Gleaner Girl week for the Taylor Stake. It opened Sunday evening with a Fireside held in the Magrath Assembly Hall, with about 200 present. Mr. Don Steele of Lethbridge was special speaker. Other activities for the week include: a Temple excursion Tuesday, an Election party in the Stirling Assembly Hall Wednesday, a Sports Night Thursday in the Stake Recreation Hall, the Golden Gleaners Banquet in the Recreation Hall Friday. Saturday night brings a dance in the Welling Assembly Hall and next Sunday after conference a testimony meeting will be held.

The Second Ward Bishopric held a farewell party Friday evening at the home of Bishop and Mrs. Wm. Jensen in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Harker who are leaving soon for Utah. Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Melchin of Lethbridge were special guests. A delicious Chinese supper was enjoyed as was the evening of visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Harker were each presented with a gift.

Former Raymond Student Honored By Jr. Red Cross

Miss Elaine King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. King of Olds, has been selected as one of five high school students from Alberta to attend the Canadian-American Study Centre at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario. Elaine will arrive in Kingston on August 21st and leave for home again on August 31st.

Miss King was advised that she had been selected to attend the Centre by Mrs. B. Norgren, Director of the Junior Red Cross of Alberta who was in Olds on Wednesday of last week.

The local high school had been asked to recommend to the Red Cross, students who might attend the Centre and make a worthwhile contribution to the various programs. Young people from Canada, United States, Latin America, the Caribbean the North West Territories and Alaska will attend the 10-day meet.

Main purpose of the study centre is to promote among the girls and boys participating, a mutual understanding of the customs and governments of each country; to provide a broader knowledge of the aims and programs of the Red Cross and to afford stimulation and inspiration to members of the Junior Red Cross.

Included in the program in which Miss King will take part are a visit to Ottawa and a tour of the Parliament Buildings; a visit to historic Fort Henry; a Sunday boat cruise and picnic among the Thousand Islands and a visit to Queen's University Museum.

(Elaine started school here and has told local people that she thought the schools in Raymond were the best she had ever attended.)

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nalder announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Dick Lindberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lindberg of Salt Lake City. The wedding will take place in the Salt Lake Temple on Monday, June 20th. A reception to honor the newly weds will be held in the Raymond Stake House on Friday, June 24th.

Air Cadet Activities

On arrival at Claresholm, the cadets were formed up, in the large gym. The march past followed, with G/C McCarthy taking the salute. Led by the RCAF pipe band, the 300 cadets from 7 squadrons marched smartly past the large aircraft which formed the background. It was an impressive sight.

After the ceremony concluded, the cadets were divided into two groups. While one group was at lunch, the other was taken for flights in a Dakota and four Expediter aircraft. The rest of the afternoon was taken up with drill competition, track and field rifle shoot and softball games between squadrons. After supper the softball finals were played off between Taber and Raymond. Altho Raymond put up a stiff battle, they lost to the more powerful Taber Cadets.

G/C McCarthy presented four trophies to the best drill team, track, and field, rifle shooting, and softball. The Taber cadets got away with 3 of the trophies, while Lethbridge won the rifle competition. Although the Raymond squadron didn't bring back any trophies, this observer has to give them credit for their smartness on parade, their sportsmanship and general conduct.

Reminder to cadets — Next Tuesday, June 7th, is inspection. Look smart — shine your boots and buttons, clean and press your uniforms, get your hair cut, etc. Parents of the cadets are cordially invited to come and witness the inspection.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thorson of Bow Island visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mutt Ralph, over the week end.

Jean McGillveray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McGillveray and Susanne Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Wood, are honored to receive the award for the best essay in the Warner County on "The Prevention of Farm Accidents in Alberta."

Jean is in Grade 8 and Susanne in Grade 6. Each girl received a gold pin for herself and a plaque for her classroom.

Stake House Scene Of MIA Maids Party

Stake MIA Maid leader, Bertha Stone, was in charge of the very successful MIA Banquet held Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Stake House.

Mrs. Ruth Salmon conducted the sing-song accompanied by Mrs. Emma Dahl at the piano. This was followed by the delicious banquet at tables decorated by a profusion of spring flowers.

An entertaining program which followed included: a duet by Glenna Pack and Marilyn Kiddle, a solo by Carole Bullock, a piano solo by Ally Vincent, a chorus by the MIA Maids of the Raymond Third Ward, a solo by Helen Michelson of Stirling and a duet by Mary Lou Wilde and Shonna Nelson of Welling. Marian Robertson of Magrath favored with a piano solo followed by a chorus by the MIA Maids of the Magrath Second Ward.

Marle Strong led the group in some hilarious games and the evening ended with dancing to the music of a record player.

Mrs. Helen Sabey has finished her packing and leaves today (Friday) for a month in Salt Lake City.

Friday evening a pot luck supper was enjoyed at the Claude Baker home by their Study Class. The games were under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Walker, ably (?) assisted by Joe Keeler as Caller.

Stirling Stories

BORN to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hirsche, in St. Michael's Hospital, Lethbridge, May 30, a daughter.

The Stirling Ward held their closing Relief Society program this week. Literature teacher Mrs. Victoria Zaugg gave the interesting book review on "Adam Bede." Lunch was served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Proctor are visiting this week at the home of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Brandley, near Monarch.

The Home and School Association held a very successful variety show and pantry sale Friday evening. Mr. Ronald Clarke was in charge of the program and proceeds from the sale will buy play equipment for the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Hill of Taber visited Saturday at the home of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill.

Mrs. Thelma Jacobs' Grade V class is holding a demonstration and pageant on Alberta on June 6, when all the parents are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff West and son Rodney of Picture Butte were Sunday visitors at the John Hill and Otto Schnoor homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Nelson of Lethbridge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, enjoyed the Victoria Day holiday in Waterton Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Delon Erickson of New Dayton were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schnoor.

Mrs. Farrel Oler is home after being a patient in the Municipal Hospital in Raymond for a few days.

Welling News

Miss LaVon Peterson, who has been working in Edmonton for the past several months, returned home Wednesday. She plans on working in Waterton for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilde visited in Mt. View Sunday with the Franklin Smiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Cal Alston of Magrath were Waterton visitors Sunday.

The Welling Seminary students held their graduation program in conjunction with Magrath Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Hough have had as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Johnson of Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wilde were Calgary visitors for a couple of days last week.

Mrs. Atha Peterson and Miss LaVon Peterson are leaving on the week end for a couple of weeks holiday in Salt Lake City.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilde and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gurney and family of Magrath were among the many who enjoyed the Band Festival in Lethbridge Saturday.

New Hope For Arthritic Patients

Rheumatoid or arthritic disease has plagued man since pre-historic times. Evidence of arthritic damage to bones and joints has been found in ancient Egyptian mummies and even in the skeletons of giant mammals that roamed the earth before the advent of man.

Today these diseases are the prime source of chronic illness and a leading cause of physical disability. In the United States alone they victimize more than ten million people each year. According to recent estimates, their annual toll amounts to 160 million working days lost, with a resulting loss in income exceeding one billion dollars annually.

The most commonly known forms of rheumatoid diseases are arthritis, rheumatism, gout and bursitis. Characteristic symptoms are stiffness and pain of joints and muscles. In severe cases the joints appear swollen and inflamed and the patient may be unable to leave his bed.

Because the causes for most of these conditions are still unknown a wide variety of treatments have been tried. Dramatic results have been obtained in the treatment of severe cases with hormone drugs. But possible undesirable side effects and other considerations have been found to limit the value of hormones for long-term treatment of arthritis.

The classical treatment for arthritic diseases, the salicylates (aspirin), in combination with vitamins are proving helpful. Physicians have reported that aspirin in combination with vitamin C given to rheumatism patients relieves pain, increases the feeling of well being and affords greater use of the affected joints.

One drug manufacturer is now producing a tablet called Acetylcol which contains the classical ingredients of aspirin and vitamins from the B complex group and vitamin C. A drug called colchicine, a specific for gout has been added. The vitamins are of therapeutic value because nutritional deficiencies are commonly found in arthritic diseases, especially in elderly patients, and colchicine because gout, not a rich man's disease as once thought, is more frequently present than had been suspected. This combination of agents relieves pain in a high proportion of patients and permits a more normal and active life. Furthermore, the inclusion of still another compound, para-aminobenzoic acid or PABA, makes it possible to achieve effective relief with lower dosages of aspirin. Until the causes and mechanisms of the rheumatoid diseases are fully understood, and drugs found which can effect cures, the medical profession continues to depend largely on this classical form of treatment to provide for the patient relief from his crippling pain.

In more ways than one, the platter Babs Brown is holding reflects the culture of ancient Mexico, for it contains music of 1,500 or more years ago, played on the actual flutes, drums and rattles seen in the drawing. In Mexico City recently scholars were set on their ears when a young musician, Samuel Marti, announced his discovery that Mexico had rich, complex music centuries before the conqueror Cortes came from Spain and even before the Aztecs descended on the Valley of Mexico. This music, ultra-modern in sound, is currently being broadcast in Mexico; Canada is the first outside country to get it, in a program of legends and ancient music Babs is presenting on the CBC Trans-Canada network every week. The series is called "Legends of Mexico."

After attending the wedding of their son, David, in Manti, Utah, Mr. and Mrs. Frelen Dahl motored on to Phoenix, Arizona, for a holiday trip.

Miss Alice Birt, accompanied by Mrs. Vonna Hedenstrom and Mrs. Mabel Veen were Calgary visitors Sunday. Miss Birt's mother recently underwent major surgery.

were seen of huge size, in golds and colors, showing dragons, etc. We were shown through the gardens by a charming Japanese woman speaking good English. She explained that the founder Okada, was trying to establish a new religion, based on the harmony of culture with nature.

The gardens proved his point. One of them was of small pine trees, set in a moss lawn, not grass. This moss had been donated, 125 varieties, by his followers, all over Japan. It had a variegated appearance of beautiful green velvets.

Another spot was bamboos set in white sand, with tea houses hidden behind winding paths, and waterfalls tumbling over vast rock settings. This is a favorite garden device. We have seen them on the roofs of department stores — 8 storeys above the street. How it is done, we do not know, but there it is, Rocks and Waterfalls.

Next we took a cable car trip of about a mile up the mountain side. It is all inhabited, with stations at various levels, as you ascend. At the near top was a broad gravel highway, with Japanese Hotels, lovely pond gardens and hundreds of people enjoying their holidays.

To close the day, we had reserved hot sulphur baths — family style, and descended in hotel kimonos for our soaking.

The pools were about 12 feet in diameter, steaming hot. The technique is to slowly boil, then a cool shower after. Of course you soap clean and rinse before the hot bath. A most restful and exhilarating feeling is achieved.

Next day, a special service bus transported a full party of us up the steep curving mountain roads to Lake Hakone, one of the famed holiday spots of the Fuji area. This was about 30 miles round trip.

No wonder the people love it. Similar to Waterton, but about 4 miles long, it is populated by steamers, motor boats, sail boats, row boats, Hotels, Shrines, and thousands of people, in hundreds of buses.

We took a motor boat ride, edged the lake, and returned to Hakone Hotel.

Then, we inched our way, past streams of people, cars and buses to Hakone shrine, again set high on the mountain side.

You climb hundreds of stone steps set between an avenue of tall pines, some of the largest in the country, to the shrine level. Then descend to the lake edge and look through the massive red Torii Gate, which is set out in the water. The landmark of Lake Hakone and the trademark of all the picture postcards is this vast gate to the shrine.

CARLING'S COMES TO ALBERTA

Carling's Black Label product will be on the market in Alberta before the end of July, said S. F. Heard, President of Red Deer Brewing Co. Ltd., following an extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders held in the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, on May 25th.

It was unanimously agreed at the meeting that the name of the company should be changed to The Carling Breweries (Alberta) Limited. The shareholders welcomed the opportunity thus given their company to produce at the Red Deer plant the beer which has the fastest growing sales in Canada. Mr. Adam Carson, the company's brewmaster, who served Carling's in Ontario in a similar capacity for several years, will be directly responsible for production.

To further guarantee the exact quality of Carling's Black Label product, arrangements have been made with The Carling Breweries Limited to have their Production Manager of Brewing, Mr. Stan Parker, work in conjunction with the brewing staff of The Carling Breweries (Alberta) Limited. Mr. Parker's main responsibilities with The Carling Breweries Limited are control of quality and co-ordination of production of their numerous plants to produce a uniform product throughout Canada. It is largely due to his efforts that such unparalleled public acceptance has been attained in this country, England and the United States. It is planned that Mr. Parker will work very closely with Mr. Carson in Red Deer.

Alma Hancock Family Has Joyful Surprise

Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Alma Hancock had the thrill of receiving a phone call from their son, Keith, who is just concluding a mission for the L.D.S. Church, in the Argentine. The call came from Buenos Aires, using both telephone and short wave facilities, but the reception was very good.

Keith left Buenos Aires on June 1st for home by way of Hamburg, Germany. He and his travelling companion, Calvin Miller of Taber, will spend a month touring Europe before returning home.
